ENFIELD DEEDS.

N. B.—The East Precinct of Enfield in 1734 was incorporated as the Township of Somers.

Both Enfield and Somers were de facto in Hampshire County, Mass., until 1750.

The accompanying Abstracts of Enfield and Somers deeds are taken from the Land Record in the custody of the County Registrar of Deeds, Springfield, Mass., except the pages marked Town Book A, which are in the custody of the Enfield Town Clerk, Thompsonville, Conn.

In these Abstracts the residences of grantors and grantees if not given are in Enfield. The same is true of the land.

It was the intention to copy every name found in these deeds and also to give every indication of relationship therein expressed.

There are many evident errors in the original records, especially of dates. For these the copyist is of course not responsible.

JAMES ALLEN KIBBE, Copyist.

GRAVEYARD INSCRIPTIONS—ENFIELD.

CERTIFICATE OF CORRECTNESS.

The undersigned would hereby certify, That he has to the best of his ability collected all the Epitaphs in Enfield and Somers having death dates as early as 1850, and has faithfully transcribed the same into the following record.

That the copy when finished was by him taken to the several cemeteries and all names and dates therein were there carefully compared with the original inscriptions, and all errors and omissions discovered were there carefully corrected.

JAMES ALLEN KIBBE,
Warehouse Point, Conn.

Nov., 26, 1897.

EPITAPHS,

ENFIELD STREET CONN. CEMETERY.

1696-1850.

Stones and Epitaphs have not been found for all whose death is recorded — Dea. Thomas Hale, First Town Clerk, died April 22d 1725, but no grave stone remains— Doubtless some are covered up in digging neighbouring graves.

When more than one year appears on the same inscription, the latest is taken for classification.

1025. (Broken stone—quite old.) Should follow 566.
O A.

(Some cannot be classified as to date.)

The oldest stone is that of Isaac Morgan 1696—p. 145.

The subscriber would certify:

1. That the following Epitaphs from the cemeteries of Enfield and Somers are all that by diligent search could be found bearing dates from the earliest stone (1696) to 1850.

2. That he carefully copied the same and afterwards compared each one with the original inscription to make sure of its accuracy.

3. That these Epitaphs are to the best of his ability and knowledge complete and correct.

JAMES ALLEN KIBBE,
Warehouse Point, Conn.

For thee on each returning year,
Friendship will heave the tender sigh,
For thee shall drop the briny tear,
And all thy native members try,
Around yon kind paternal home,
Where oft thy childish footsteps strayed
Methinks there hangs a solemn gloom,
Which saddens all the distant glade.

Like virtue's image sent on earth,
Thou charm'd awhile our wandering eyes,
Then sought the climes that gave thee birth,
And winged thy way to happier skies.
If virtue can a crown receive,
What dazling glories deck thy head,
No longer then let friendship grieve,
For all our hopes leave the with God.

Raynolds thy name thy memory shall survive
The fading honors marble statues give
When this frail stone's decay'd, forgot this verse,
Posterity thy virtues shall reherse,
Thy conjugal, paternal, social love,
Religious zeal with charity inwove,
Shall speak the gen'rous gentle temper'd kind,
Blest with much science in an humble mind.
Thy purity of morals sacred fear
Of God, and fervent love of man declare,
Tell from thy hallow'd tongue how wisdom flow'd,
How with th' inspir'd discourse each bosom glow'd,
How thy sweet converse gladden'd every heart,
And sentiment instructive did impart,
Bless God that here thy bright example's giv'n
A guide to lead mankind to thee in heaven.

O what is life! 'tis like a flower,
That blossoms and is gone;
It flourishes its little hour;
With all its beauty on:
Death come; and like a wintry day,
It cut the lovely flower away.

Present building Dedicated February 14, 1849.

200TH ANNIVERSARY OF SETTLEMENT OF THE FIRST PASTOR OF ENFIELD FIRST CHURCH.

First Pastor, Rev. Nathaniel Collins,
Settled June 3d, 1699.

Rev. Nathaniel Collins, son of Rev. Nathaniel Collins, of Middletown Conn; graduated at Harvard College in 1697; was the first settled pastor of the church in Enfield Conn. 1699 to 1724; was town clerk of Enfield 1729 to 1735. He married (1st) 7 June 1700/1701 Alice Adams daughter of Rev. William Adams of Dedham and great granddaughter of Gov. William Bradford of the Mayflower. She died 19 Feb. 1735, in her 53d year (gravestone). He married (2d) Rachel Smith daughter of Samuel Smith of Glastonbury Conn. before 22 June 1737. She outlived him. The land records of Enfield and Glastonbury show that the last twenty years of his life he resided in Glastonbury. He died 31 Dec. 1756 in his 80th year (gravestone) and is buried in Enfield Street Cemetery by the side of his first wife.

CHURCH AND SOCIETY.

NOTE.—It is well to note that in New England Congregationalism the Church and the Ecclesiastical Society are separate and distinct bodies. The Church is confined to Spiritual things. The Society takes care of all Temporal things. The Church Records consist of memberships, baptisms, marriages, deaths, etc. The Society Records treat of erecting and repairing church buildings, care and control of all church property, the calling and settlement of ministers, payment of their salary, and seeing to their dismission when circumstances seem to make dismission necessary. The Ecclesiastical Society was formerly much more powerful than it is to-day, as will readily be seen after a study of the "Separate" documents published in Vol. II of this work.

In Enfield until the year 1770 the parish lines were the town lines, the Society voters were the town voters, and all society business was done in town meeting. See Vol. I, page 437, for the ending of this practice and the creating of the 2d Society, whose church had then (1770) been in existence about twenty-five years.

Order of Exercises

for the Dedication of the

Congregational Church, in Enfield,

February 14th 1849.

I.—Voluntary, by the Choir.
II.—Invocation, and Reading the Scriptures.
III.—Singing, Anthem—"Harken unto me."
IV.—Prayer.
V.—Singing—Hymn by Mrs. Sigourney.

Glory to him whose aid
Doth all right deeds inspire,
To Him whose goodness bade
This hallowed dome aspire
Beneath whose shade,
On altar fair,
Are humbly laid
Our praise and prayer.

Here may the Gospel's power
The burdened sinner save,
And light the darkest hour
Of sorrow and the grave,
Nor ever cease
To teach the mind,
Goodwill and peace
To all mankind.

Here may an infant train
Of Christ's sweet love be told;
And earnest manhood gain
A better wealth than gold,
And hoary hairs
Within this shrine,
Change fears and cares
For strength divine.

Here may a future race,
Their country's hope and trust,
Seek a Redeemer's grace
When we are cold in dust.
To God their King.
With grateful care,
Accepted bring
Their praise and prayer.

Voted to accept the report.

The following Resolution offered by A. G. Hazard was adopted, viz.

"Resolved, That this Society tender to Newton Moses of New Haven their approbation and approval of the prompt & faithful manner in which he has executed his contract for building them a church, which has been done not only to their entire satisfaction, but in a manner evincing a high order of ability & skill, entitling him to their confidence as a competent & able builder, and their esteem & regard as a gentleman."

The following resolution offered by A. G. Hazard was adopted, viz.

"Resolved that the tasteful & elegant manner in which Messrs Maleni & Allign [?] of the city of New York have painted the interior of this church in Fresco meets the entire approbation of this Society & fully sustains the high artistical character of those gentlemen."

The following Resolution offered by R. M. Abbe was adopted, viz.

"Resolved that the thanks of the First Ecclesiastical Society be tendered to our building Committe for their unflinching energy—Their good skill in selecting articles for the completion of this Edifice —and in fact for all their movements as a financial Committe i. e., Money—Friendship—Love of Order—of Society & the good of after generations."

The following resolution offered by R. M. Abbe was adopted viz.

"Resolv[d] That the thanks of the male portion of this Society be voted to the Ladies for the skill, taste & enterprise they have manifested in adorning this Edifice, and may they so appropriate their labours as to become fellow-workers in their Good Graces for the ever future."

For the purpose of protecting the Meeting House, & furniture, sheds, shade trees & grounds of this Society from depredations, petty injuries & trespass.

Voted. That it shall be the duty of the Society's Committe & Sexton to make diligent inquiry after those persons who may be guilty of doing any injuries to the above named property, and to institute due legal proceedings against such persons. And for the purpose of discovering the persons who may do such injuries, it is hereby voted that any person who may furnish evidence which shall convict any person of such offence shall be entitled to one half the fines or damages which may be recovered in any such proceedings.

Voted that subscriptions be taken up for the purpose of liquidating the debt of the Society to be paid in one year from the present date.

ADDITIONAL RECORD OF DEATHS.

The following entries of Deaths in Enfield from 1785 to 1849 inclusive are selected from a Record Book in the possession of Mr. Jabez Parsons (b. 1812), who kindly loaned the book for this purpose.

The first eighteen years of this record were written by his grandmother, Abigail (Kingsbury) Parsons, b. 1752, d. 1802, wife of Asahel Parsons, b. 1747, d. 1816. After her death it was continued by her son, Asahel Parsons, b. 1778, d. 1857; and, when his hand failed, his son Jabez Parsons kept up the record until 1883.

The record is quite full and valuable. However, from it only such entries are here transcribed as are either not found in the town and church records, or, if found there, have in this record some added statement of value. KIBBE.

ENFIELD AND SOMERS SOLDIERS IN THE COLONIAL WARS.

NAMES AND TERMS OF SERVICE.

1675 to 1762.

The Revolutionary soldiers from Enfield are so many and so fully set forth in "Connecticut in the Revolution," published by the State, that it is deemed useless to reproduce them and prolong this volume. Whereas, the heroes of the earlier days have never been enrolled and published, so far as known. Strenuous and long-continued efforts have been made to make a complete list—but the difficulties are too great.

FIRST SETTLERS IN ENFIELD WHO WERE SOLDIERS IN KING PHILIP'S WAR IN 1675.

William Randall [Ramsdell].
John Day.
Thomas Howard [Hayward].
Benjamin Jones.
William Markham.
Isaac Morgan.
Joseph Warrener.
Thomas Abbe.
Isaac Gleason.

(Taken from "Bodge's Soldiers in King Philip's War.")

NOTE.—John Allen, one of the heroes of King Philips War, should have mention here. He enlisted from Deerfield, but was an early settler in Enfield.

Samuel Allen, emigrant, of Windsor, founder of the Windsor branch of the Allen family d. 1648 leaving Samuel, Nehemiah, John, Obadiah, Rebecca, Mary. His widow Ann married W^{m} Hurlburt & moved to Northampton with her children, except Obadiah who went to his Uncle Thomas in Middletown. Of these children John married Mary Hannum and moved to Deerfield. He was engaged in King Philip's War and with Capt Lathrop and the "Flower of Essex" was killed at Bloody Brook Sep. 18, 1675. His son John, Deerfield being destroyed, moved down the Conn. River & settled in Enfield in 1690. His land grant was confirmed in 1696, Vide, Vol. I, pp. 23, 281.) He was g. g. g. g. father of Francis Olcott Allen, author of this History. His brother Samuel to escape Indians moved to Enfield from Northampton in 1697. (Land Grant, Vide, Vol. I, p. 281.) Nehemiah was g. grandfather of Gen. Ethan Allen.

ENFIELD SOLDIERS.

Louisburgh Expedition, 1745.

Under Sir William Pepperill.

Louisburgh, Cape Breton, was the Gibraltar of America. Here for the first time the raw levies of the Colonies met & vanquished the trained soldiers of Europe & gaining confidence were prepared for the Revolution 30 years later.

The Enfield Town Records give the names of the following persons as dying at Cape Breton:

THE HAVANA EXPEDITION, 1762.

In 1761, Spain, coming to the aid of France, declared war against England. This was in accordance with a secret treaty in which the Bourbon princes bound themselves to defend each other.

The English Expedition against Havana followed in the summer of 1762. The city was taken and held; but by the Treaty of Paris, 1763, it was returned to Spain—and to one hundred and thirty-five years of misrule.

At the siege of Havana not many of the English army were killed in battle, but heat, thirst, hunger and disease, carried off thousands. It is said that of over 14,000 men not 3,000 were fit for duty when Havana surrendered. (See Atlantic Monthly, Vol. XII., page 468—foot note.)

The First Conn. Regiment, under command of Genl. Phinehas Lyman, was in this Expedition. Many of its men were from Enfield and Somers. Rev. John Graham was regimental Chaplain. His Diary (published) tells a sad tale of suffering and death in that unwholesome home of the yellow fever. The following are extracts from Chaplain Graham's Diary:

"Saturday. Oct. 2, 1762.

"Whole number of 1st Conn. Reg. when it left New York, 914. Dead to this "day, 2 Captains, 1 Lieutenant, 1 Ensign, 1 Surgeon's Mate, 5 Sergeants, 1 Drum-"mer, 173 Privates. Total, 184.

"Oct. 9.—No. of dead out of Gen. Lyman's Regiment, 207.

"Oct. 17.—By return of yesterday, died last week$_2$ 18. Total, 226."

On the next day (18th) the Regiment embarked for New York. More died on the way and some soon after reaching home, but the number is unknown. Thus this profitless Expedition cost England and her American Colonies thousands of precious lives and filled the land with mourning.

EARLIEST ENFIELD LAND GRANTS, ETC.

THE following items are abstracts of entries found in the Book of Ancient Land Grants and Possessions of Springfield, Mass., from which town Enfield was set off in 1683. These Springfield grants were mostly forfeited or given up; but a few were afterwards confirmed by the Committee that settled the town of Enfield. There seems to be no evidence of actual settlement at Freshwater until 1680 or 1681, yet it is probable that Col. John Pynchon had a sawmill on Freshwater brook several years previous to this date.—KIBBE.

THE GREAT ISLAND.

The largest island in the Connecticut river lies between the towns of Enfield and Suffield. At first it was called Pynchon's Island. Afterwards it was known as King's Island. The name now given it is Terry's Island. It contains about one hundred acres. The jurisdiction of this island has been a matter of frequent dispute between the towns of Suffield and Enfield.

The Land title was originally vested in Col. John Pynchon, as the following extracts will show, taken from Records of Massachusetts Bay, Vol. 5, pages 329, 330; dated Oct. 18, 1681:

Major Pynchon to General Court of Mass—There being a small island in Connecticut Ryver at & toward the foote of the ffalls below Springfield which lately some of Windsor in Connecticut colony have purchased of the Indians & challenge it not only as their owne but as belonging to that colony, when it falls some miles wthin our line, as it was formerly runn I thought meet to certify this honnored Court thereof, that they may please to make some meet disposal thereof to prevent incroachments upon our line. Jn^{o} Pynchon.

The Court judgeth it meet to grant the island above mentioned to Major John Pynchon in consideration of his pains formerly in running our patent line.

Upon the death of Col. John Pynchon this island descended to one of his heirs, Mary, wife of John Ashley, from whom the chain of title is perfect to the present day. KIBBE.

"SEATING THE MEETING HOUSE" AND "DIGNIFYING THE PEWS."

In all these volumes occur frequent references to these customs in Enfield churches; therefore an explanation is due to many readers unfamiliar with the practice. Every student of early New England days must have noticed that the Puritans had an intense reverence for social, political and official precedence. In their customs and laws the iron hand of social distinction appears, even to the forbidding of the use of silks and ribbons by certain classes; but inasmuch as they were of all things religious, the most remarkable exhibition of the tendency was in the separation of the people into classes in the house of God—by first dignifying the pews, and then selecting by committee the proper persons to occupy them for worship. It is worthy of note, also, the careful exactness in giving every man his title on all occasions. This is true not only of "Worshipful," "Esquire" and "Mr." in civil life, but down to "Corporal" in military titles. Even the students of Yale (and Harvard) were catalogued according to the social standing of the families they came from. (Vide Catalogue Yale, 1701–92, page 1.)

The question of precedence in European countries, or at State functions in this country, has not been more jealously guarded than by the Puritans in New England, producing heart-burnings and strife, as recorded here. It is, however, well to bear in mind that the Puritan did not originate this custom. In his native land class distinctions had been for centuries an essential part of the social order. Into these conditions he had been born and along these lines he had been reared. Is it, then, any wonder that he brought with him to this country these same distinctions, and, so far as practical, incorporated them into his new church and state? Of course, he had here neither kings, nor dukes, nor lords, but he had magistrates, ministers and soldiers, and a few men of gentle blood. With these as "upper classes," the system grew with their growth until the severance of Church and State, when the old forms gave way to the later but less picturesque modes of expression of the tendency to class distinctions.

Of these class distinctions, "seating the meeting-house" was an important part. This consisted of "dignifying the seats"—that is, giving to each seat its rank—and then fitting the people into these seats, each according to his supposed standing in the community. This work was done generally by a committee appointed in town meeting, as the government was state and church combined.

But it often happened that the committee's estimation of a man was not that man's estimation of himself. In consequence there were many complaints and frequent quarrels, as the records of that time abundantly show. Yet what method of church seating ever worked without friction? During the earliest years of settlement little is on record as to this matter. Each man knew his standing in his native land and naturally fell into his corresponding position here. But the growing numbers of the common people, and the rapid changes in wealth and in the general condition of the inhabitants, made it an increasingly difficult task to fit the people of any parish into the carefully "dignified seats" of God's house.

An example of this and of the common desire to avoid unpleasant things, is the following from Dorchester Church Records, page 64 (2 April, 1665): "M^{r} Whittington did declare to y^{e} church y^{t} he being appointed wth y^{e} other elders to seat people in y^{e} seats of y^{e} Meeting house he was not willing to do y^{e} work any longer but was resolved to lay it down y^{e} other elders not acting in that thing with himself but left it to him only."

In Salem, from which most of the first settlers of Enfield came, the first recorded entry of the custom is found in an order made by the selectmen changing the seats of certain persons, thus: Selectmens meeting 8th 4 mo. 57 (1657). "Imp: it is agreed that M^{r} William Browne and M^{r} George Corwin shall be seated with Major Hawthorne in what is called the magistrates seat, that the seat of M^{rs} Endicot being enlarged we agree that M^{rs} Hawthorne & M^{rs} Corwin shall be there seated, that M^{rs} Price sister Elizabeth Browne wife of John Browne & sister Grafton & the wife of Sergeant Porter we agree that they shall be seated in the second seat where M^{rs} Hawthorne and M^{rs} Corwin lately sat, that M^{rs} Norris shall be seated with M^{rs} Browne, that sister Prince to be seated where Sergeant Porter's wife lately sat, that Sergeant Porter shall sit with Cap^{t} Trask."

This entry shows that the system was in full operation in Salem less than thirty years after its settlement, and at the time when the first settlers of Enfield were boys and girls living in Salem and vicinity. Diligent search has failed to find any record of the same proceedings in England.

The first mention of the custom in Enfield is in the Town Meeting record of October y^e^ 28, 1707: "The Town meet and agree to seat y^e^ new meeting house before they meet in it. The town chuse six men to do y^t^ work (viz) capten Meacham, capten pese, Leut Parsons, Ensing Terry & Thomas abbee. The town voat y^t^ these men chosen to y^e^ a s^d^ work shall have ful p[ower] after they have done the a s^d^ work at first to Regulat y^e^ work as they see cause." (Town Meetings, Vol. I, 306.)

And 24 Feb. 1717/18 "the town voated to choose New Seators to New Seate the meeting house: Thomas Abbe sen^r^, Leu^t^ Joseph Sexton, Sam^ll^ Parsons sen^r^, Edmond Beamond & Jeremiah Meacham are chosen seato^rs^ of y^e^ Meeting house; voated to give y^e^ Seato^rs^ a Rule to Seate by (viz) age Estate & quallifications." (See Vol. III, p. 2527. Town Meetings, Vol. I, 329.)

It appears that the "Separatists" or "Second Ecclesiastical Society," the members of which went out from the "First Society," or established order, vigorously protesting against certain doctrines and practices, nevertheless did not protest against nor abandon the "Dignifying of the Pews" nor the "Seating of the Meeting House" (see Vol. II, page 1555). Nor did they escape the usual result, as shown in the page quoted, covering the transaction of 1775. The practices continued until 1793, when, on December 11^th^, a committee was voted to make a statement of our "Moade of Equality in the Society," which appears to have satisfactorily supplanted the practices, as no further allusions to them are found in the "Separatist" Records.

The last mention of this custom in Enfield Town Meeting Records is on 5 April, 1764: "Voted to new regulate the seating of the meeting house and chose the Selectmen & capt Terry, Lieut Benj Meacham, Deacon Chandler, Serg^t^ John Abbe, Lieut. Perkins & Isaac Kibbe 3^d^ to do the same and that they do it upon free cost." (Vol. I, 432.)

What the new regulations were, does not seem to be on record. After 1764 there are few references to church matters in the Town Meeting Records. One reference as late as November, 1844, is a "Vote that the Town pay for the sweeping of the meeting house of the 1^st^ Ecclesiastical Society." (Vol. I, p. 620.)

But though the Town Meeting Records are silent, we find in the First Ecclesiastical Society Record (Vol. III), after a lapse of six years from 1764 (where they begin in 1770), numerous votes for seating the meeting house down to October, 1830, when seaters were elected for each district of the town, numbered 1, 2, 3, etc. (probably school districts), but no person was to have a seat who was not a member of the Society. (Vol. III, 2586.) In October, 1834, the last committee for seating appears to have been appointed; and after reading the numerous votes in all the period from 1707–1834, a period of 127 years, for adding to the seating committee, appointing a new seating committee and various devices for accommodating the dissatisfied, it is no wonder that the practice came to an end both in Town Meeting and Ecclesiastical Society Meeting. (Vol. III, 2587.) November 29, 1835, it was voted to pay the minister's salary by "selling the slips." (Vol. III, 2587.) After this a committee to "apprise the slips" seems to have taken the place of the committee to "seat the meeting house." This apparently changed the consideration as to seats from "age, estate and qualification" of a social nature to the basis of "estate" alone; but it gave any person of whatever social position the opportunity to buy or lease any slip if he paid the larger price for the more desirable.

MOSES ALLEN

whose Commission as State Tax Collector, Constable of Enfield, is shown, was the great-great-grandson of Samuel Allen of Windsor (d. 1648) the emigrant founder of the branch of the Allen family which has given to the service of Church and State many useful men. The office of Constable was, in New England, in those days one of very different social & political importance from that of the constable of to-day. Moses served in the 2^{d} & 5th Regiments of the "Conn. Line" in the Revolution. A man of such character & "parts" as to be profoundly respected in Enfield, where he died in 1826.

Among other descendants of Samuel Allen are,

Rev. Thomas Allen of Pittsfield, Mass., the fighting Parson of the Revolution, whose heroism has been celebrated in song & story.

Rev. William Allen, Pres. of Bowdoin College—scholar—author—preacher.

General Ethan Allen of the Revolutionary War.

Captain Noah Allen of the Revolutionary War.

Major Moses Allen of Enfield, Commander of the Militia & widely respected.

Anson Allen of Enfield, great Mathematician—Astronomer and Almanac maker.

Doctor Gaius Allen of Windsor.

Doctor David Allen of Windsor.

Hon. Ethan Allen Hitchcok, Secretary of the Interior.

President J. M. Allen of Hartford, Scientist—Manager of the Steam Boiler Co.

The author of these Volumes of Enfield History is the great-great-grandson of Moses Allen the Constable.
